No need. I was having one of those days. There's a lot to do and poor Bob is still sick so we're not making much headway.

They're in their crazed, oh my god we have committee mood and I'm trying hard to stay above the fray.

Fitz is on a tear about this Asian American thing. He's in Florida on a development trip so he's micro-managing everything and yesterday had to sit in a meeting with MEM and RMW about 4 articles he's written. I decided to pull the I'm a geek and know nothing about writing, but here are all the factual edits you need to make and ran out after 40 minutes. RMW tells me that MEM kept her for an additional 2 hours.

Haley is on a perpetual whine. There is something odd about her. I don't think anything really sinks in.

The CA fee thing has been fixed, but the UA transfer template changed and now I have to figure out how so we can import their 5 candidates. I know we need them as backup, but man, they are much more trouble than they're worth.

Amelia is pushing for her Visitas stuff.

Meanwhile, only one of the last group of 15 is interested in interviewing for the job. There's one new resume, but she's more of a mini-Bob than a mini-me.

Enough whining on my part.

How are you? What's the dr say? Are you working out? Do you have biceps yet?

Redacted brought home 10 of his techie friends for dinner on Monday. It was fun. Redacted and I hid in another room after they were fed. Redacted came back on Sunday. Redacted introduced him by say. 'That's my dad. Don't touch him. He's sick, but he's a nice man.' I was just 'Mom.'

Take care,
EBY

Though if they're only just noticing this now, I do wonder how important it is or how carefully they're paying attention.
